I have used this product for many years, and recently I was in danger of running out. I was relieved to find that it is still available. Fellow sufferers probably realize that it should be applied as soon as possible when a start of a cold sore is discovered, so I keep some at work, in my truck, and at home.

I just used my old solution to start treatment, and quickly received some fresh solution to continue treatment. It is nearly gone now, and it never had the chance to develop into something everyone would notice.

Thank you for continuing to provide such a great product!
